Dear [Mr./Mrs./Ms.] [Manager's Name],

Thank you for the opportunity to submit my application for the Marketing Manager position. I have over 6 years of experience in the marketing industry, and I wish to continue to succeed in the field.

In my current role as Marketing Manager for L'oreal, I have developed product-centric promotional campaigns which are projected to grow our year-on-sales figures by $400,000. I have recruited, hired, and trained the vast majority of our current marketing specialists, all of whom have contributed to improving our overall sales goals by 24%.

Additionally, I have also:

- Managed corporate marketing functions with a budget of $2m, including brand management, product launch, advertising, marketing collateral, and events
- Led the design of new packaging elements for Panasonic which saving $50K in costs, and earned our company Green Award for utilizing cheaper, environmentally-friendly materials
- Established a new social media team that grew our web presence and global brand awareness by 34%

With a background rooted in sales and marketing, a drive to take charge in this ever-changing industry, and the core skills required to effectively manage a dedicated marketing staff; I am certain that I would prove to be a great asset to your already talented team.

I want to thank you again for allowing me the opportunity to apply for this position. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Packaging templates free download. Packaging as a marketing tool. Packaging templates free

Have you ever performed an email marketing campaign and struggled to get the desired ROI? This can be because people did not respond to your e-mails or click on the call-to-action (CTA) as it had been hoped. Have you wondered what prevents you from getting the desired commitment with your emails? The answer, in most cases, is poor e-mail design. Your emails are simply not busy enough for people to want to read and take the desired action. The e-mails scarcely designed are often not noticed and not read, wasting all your effort spent on your email marketing campaign. This is where expert and beautiful design e-mail models can help you. These models are designed by experts who know what works and what not. And, there are tons of websites that provide these e-mail models for free. All you need is to know exactly where to find these hidden gems. In this post, we have edited a list of 13 of the best online sources where you can find free e-mail models that you can use for your campaigns. Discover these sources and select those whose design aesthetics correspond to your brand aesthetics. Or, you can simply choose any model you like and customize it for the guidelines of your brand. Then, read and find tons of unique e-mail models to take your e-mail campaigns a higher notch. Sendinblue offers more than 60 completely reactive e-mail models (and even if you choose to register for its free plan, you still get full access to its models gallery). With this tool, no CSS or HTML knowledge is needed to create beautiful e-mails. In short, just choose a model and use its drag-and-like tool to reorganize the different or add new ones. However, if you want to use html email templates you downloaded, you are more than welcome. for this approach, you can use its html wysiwyg editor to make any changes. another email marketing tool you should be looking for is omnisend. with free plan, you can access free email templates which are more than enough to support small and medium businesses. The email templates are designed to save time and be customizable while driving sales. They offer a drag-and-drop user interface for emails with additional features like pop-ups and landing pages that help you increase your customer base. While there are available templates to select from, you can also design your email from scratch using layouts with the help of an editor. That's not all, you can save your finalized templates for later use and even customize them for specific campaigns. If you are looking for an extensive email marketing template, then you should check out Campaigner. With over 900 email templates, they offer features that will take your company's email campaigns to the next level. The free trial is accessible to enable businesses to test the tool before making any commitments. One of their best features is the unlimited number of emails available per month depending on the plan selected, which is generous when compared to similarly priced tools. What additional features can you get? Campaigner offers an advanced industry-leading A/B testing, responsive design, advanced reporting, API integration, and email workflows, which provide resellers, agencies, and corporate senders with the functionality needed to successfully track and monitor email marketing campaigns. This is a lesser-known source that also has a good selection of free email templates. Their template designs are mobile-responsive and look just as good on mobile devices as they do on laptops. While they do not boast a large selection of templates, their designs are minimal and can be used by anyone. Their 11 unique email templates are enough to meet your basic email design needs and get you started. However, unlike some other sources listed here, there aren't dozens of options by category. So, either you like the simple and clean designs or the more complex and detailed ones. Both categories have their own strengths and weaknesses, so it's up to you to decide which one suits your needs better. Another great thing about Campaigner is that they offer a free trial period, so you can test the tool before committing to a paid plan. Overall, Campaigner is a great choice for those looking for a reliable and feature-rich email marketing tool.
